Literature News

If you are still using cassettes this is just for you. “Switching from cassette to digital audio is easy, quick and inexpensive” so says a new leaflet from the Reading Through Audio group of which Torch is a member. Torch continues to produce cassettes, increasingly, however, digital audio is becoming the norm. This leaflet is designed to answer frequently asked questions and is available FREE in clear print (enclosed), cassette and audio CD from Torch. We will keep you posted of further developments.

International News

Janet and Michael Stafford are currently away in Malawi and return on the 7th January.

However, Janet communicates via a text message: ‘a different Christmas, 3 long days distributing food parcels to 340 families...2 children brought with burns.. on the afternoon of the 25th family time with orphans who brought things they had made and were then each presented with a small gift. It also appears that a bore hole (in a remote village) will shortly be opened.’

Regional News

It is always hugely encouraging to announce the opening of more Prayer Groups in new locations where we have not had Groups before. At our first meeting in Maidstone, Kent, at the beginning of December, 6 people came and Mrs Mary King volunteered to be the link person and act as the Prayer Coordinator.

Torch House News

We have available at Torch House, free to anyone, a number of cassettes of the book 'Love is a Wild Bird' written and read by Eddie Askew; also 'Awakenings' a series of stories and prayers extracted from her book (same title) by Hilary Faith Jones. Contact Torch House to request some.

Holiday news

55 people enjoyed a fun festive Christmas house party at High Leigh Centre in Hertfordshire. One of the helpers Rev Francis Ballantyne writes: 'how can I describe the fellowship over the meal times, the fun as serviette snowballs were thrown up and down the large banquet table, and the ministry from Peter Jackson and Mike Townsend and so much more. The size of chocolate muffins, the snow laden grounds, Gail in her new kilt dancing with Stuart at the Cedlidh, and the enormous haggis...!!'

N.B Finally Dr Gordon Temple's New Year message is on the Torch website www.torchtrust.org Wishing you all a very blessed and peaceful 2010.
